SOUNDS FAMILIAR?

You may be a victim of human trafficking. You have rights – no one can force you or stop you from leaving.

DO YOU THINK YOU ARE A VICTIM OF TRAFFICKING?

You can call us.

Even just to ask for advice.

It's free and anonymous. You don't have to give your name or take any action.

Not safe to call?

Speak to someone you trust.

A friend, a doctor, a social assistant... Ask them to contact us or the police for you.

Always put your safety first.

Don't take risks or put yourself in danger.

Try to keep evidence if you can.

If it's safe, keep any evidence of what you are going through. This can help later.

DO YOU KNOW SOMEONE WHO MIGHT BE A VICTIM?

Victims need support, not to be rescued.

Offer support, but let them decide. Respect their choices and just be there if they need it.

Unless they are minors: then call the police immediately.

Victims can refuse help at first.

Victims may be scared to speak up. Don't push them. Let them know help is available whenever they feel ready.

If you suspect someone is a victim, reach out to us.

If you have doubts contact PAG-ASA – even just to ask for advice.

Speak to the potential victim alone.

Exploiters often watch their victims closely. Try to talk one-on-one, if it's safe to do so.

Always put safety first.

Don't take risks or put yourself and/or the victim in danger.

HUMAN TRAFFICKING?

Human trafficking is when someone is controlled and exploited for money – through work, sex, begging or forced crime. In Belgium, victims of trafficking are protected by law. Victims can receive support and assistance while their cases are being investigated.
